“There are so many benefits of sending your child to GDHS – the obvious being small classroom size which gives amazing access to the teachers for increased educational purposes but it allows them to learn more about their students and individualize advice, learning and guidance to their benefit. Our daughter has been sought out and suggested course selections based on her academic success and challenges, personally encouraged to join programs based on her strengths and interests and had the opportunity to participate in activities that have grown her leadership skills.

What solidified our decision was post-secondary opportunities, and how our choice of high school would affect her future. Colleges and Universities take note of not just the percentage of successful graduates, but also how many of those graduates are successful in their post-secondary endeavours, and GDHS has an impressive success rate. We wanted our daughter to benefit from not just her abilities and efforts, but also the reputation of the school she attended, making GDHS the obvious choice.”

“I have two students currently in grade ten and one on her way next year for grade nine. Glencoe District High School has given my children opportunities that I feel they wouldn't have been provided at a larger school. Being in a smaller school their class sizes are smaller. This gives students the chance to get more help if needed. It's like being in a private school without having to pay for it. They were also able to participate in sports that they may not have been able to in a larger school. The teachers know all the kids by name whether they have them in their class or not. They go out of their way to help them get the best marks they can get. By being in a local school there have been more opportunities for after-school extracurricular activities, or jobs. Kids at Glencoe don't get lost in the shuffle.”

“As parents we appreciate everything GDHS has had to offer to both our daughters. The sense of community and support has been key in their experience. Our oldest graduated from GDHS and is in her third year at Western University. GDHS prepared her well for post-secondary and she’s thriving there. She looks back on her high school career with great memories and a fondness of the staff and students that she shared her time with. Our youngest daughter is in Grade 12 and is living her final year of high school through the current pandemic. It hasn’t been ideal for her final year, but she feels safe coming to school and the one-on-one experience she has had with her teachers has been amazing for her. Especially when she’s preparing to apply to post-secondary. Both of our daughters have enjoyed not only the academic part of school but the sports and extra-curriculars GDHS has to offer. Which we know will come back eventually for others as time moves forward. We cannot express enough how much we appreciate that our girls were able to experience the feeling of safety, security, support and community by attending a small school. They take this sense of family with them wherever they go and always look forward to coming home.”

“GDHS is more than ‘the town school’. It’s small. It’s been here many years. My husband went here and a few teachers are still teaching here... In my opinion ‘this little country school’ has SO MUCH to offer! So very much more than a bigger city school, with numerous program choices. The beauty of this ‘little’ school is that it has HUGE SPIRIT. There are MANY spirit days and opportunities for your child to join in and be included in the fun! What school do you know of that provides the entire building with a full turkey meal at Christmas? Or a chance to go offsite for an overnight GAELS team building experience? My kids have all talked about GAEL Force for years after they’ve attended. It’s definitely been a highlight of their school career here! The staff have been so supportive of all 3 of my children while they attended GDHS & after! When my oldest son lost a classmate to suicide, the entire faculty supported the kids in every way possible. And as a parent, that meant so much to see teachers rally around the kids & walk alongside of them to support them not only academically but emotionally as well. I’ll never forget that. The entire staff will know your child by name in the first week of school, regardless of whether they are in his or her class. This was important to me as a parent because I felt like MY child mattered. That MY child was not just a face in a sea of faces. But that the teachers care enough to make my child’s learning experience successful.”

It's been my experience that when asked for help (by my child or questioned by myself) every teacher HAS offered it and followed through. They really want your child to succeed and shine. The graduation rate here for years has been well above 90%..unheard of in 'big schools.' The decision to attend another school out of bounds was never given a thought, as there are very few electives in the first 2 years of school, meaning, core subjects are the same whether here or there. GDHS has unique programs that are NOT offered elsewhere, such as the much sought after Specialist High Skills Major Program. For my daughter who worked frequently after her Co-ops, living close to her school allowed her much more time to complete homework or earn money. Time not spent travelling on the highway, especially in winter. I love our 'little town school.' I support GDHS. The more kids that attend in the grade 9 & 10 years, solidifies teaching lines which means more electives can be brought here. It's all about the numbers of butts in seats, to the Thames Valley Board. Keeping our kids in our local schools means keeping teachers employed HERE and bringing elective opportunities here as well. Kids that attend 'out of bounds' schools are disappointed when they try to sign up for classes and won't get the elective if there's a child that wants it from that town...your child is not priority there, in the sea of faces. At GDHS they are the PRIORITY!"

“Glencoe District High School is small but mighty. The involvement teachers and staff have with the students is outstanding. They know your kids and motivate them to be the best student they can be. GDHS is hands on in the community, students and staff at events to volunteer hours, everyone is helping out. We are proud to have our family attend GDHS and looking forward to the next attending in the fall.”

“Lots of students look forward to 'moving on' from grade eight to high school with fear and trepidation, and that is totally normal! It's a huge step! There are the simple, yet obvious differences from day one. You get to leave behind 'lining up single file, putting your coats on hangers in the hall and indoor shoes on the shelf' to having your own locker and lock to yourself (oh btw - check the dimensions so your shelves fit - the first time! lol) - and the independence of tossing your stinky, sweaty phys. ed clothes in the bottom of your locker under binders and stuff OR duplicating your favourite Instagramer's posts with pictures of your friends and selfies to remind you that life is a whole lot better with them smiling back at you! BUT if you're wondering if you will get the courses you need or if you will be prepared for college or university by Grade 12, the answer is YES x 2! Not only do you receive one-on-one support from your teachers, but you can participate in extracurricular activities like Students' Council, sports teams, clubs or the SHSM Program. All you need to do is show up and do the work! My favourite part as a parent to one recent grad and current Grade 11 student - GDHS is like an oversized family and this family spends time together! Sometimes that means good times and celebratory moments, other times it involves supporting one another in challenging moments or even tragedy - but the staff and students of GDHS are here to support you. If you want a safe and secure place to be then GDHS is it!”

“When people say, “it’s not the house that makes the home, but it’s the people in it”, most people tend to agree, that yes it is the people who are most important to making us feel safe, wanted and loved. After having three of my sons attend GDHS, I am of the same mindset of our hometown high school. It is the people in our school that make it such a great place for our children to attend. When my two older sons, who have both graduated GDHS, speak of their high school years it is most often about the teachers they had. “Do you remember when Broderick did....? Remember when Flegel said....? I remember when Ms. Grover.....”... all statements said with love and respect in their voices that came from being treated very well and having been led by teachers who cared for them very much.

I highly recommend students attend Glencoe District High School, not only for the quality education that your child will receive, but because they also learn how to be responsible and caring people because of the modelling from the educators around them. They see how to give back to their community from the School Soup lunch to the many acts of community involvement that students are encouraged to participate in.

I love that the School motto is “Smaller, Smarter, Stronger” because that is what I feel the school offered to my sons. It is a smaller school, however my sons never felt like they missed out on any opportunities, as they recognized the opportunities that they did get being in a more intimate environment. They have all received educational experiences that are second to none because of the teachers in the building and those experiences cannot be replicated in a big school.

I, myself am a secondary school teacher in a small school in a different board, so I know the experiences that can be offered to students in our buildings and how we can look after the students who are in front of us every day. I am forever amazed at what has been done in GDHS through the teachers and what they offer to our kids. My family has been completely happy with the experience they have had and continue to receive at GDHS, and I know without a doubt it is the best place for your child to be.”

"Smaller, Smarter, Stronger." GDHS truly embraces these three words. The first of our children entered grade 9 at GDHS this year and he has had an amazing start. As a parent and educator, GDHS was the best option for our son.

Smaller class sizes allow the students to feel comfortable to step out of their comfort zone and ask the questions that they might not feel as comfortable to ask in a larger class. It also allows the educators to give detailed, specific and individualized feedback that the students can use to grow. The ability to have teachers who are passionate about their teaching subjects and who genuinely invest in the success of their students is unmatched. Our son has felt the sense of community that GDHS has to offer, even in the midst of a pandemic. This would not have happened in a larger school. Even though this educational year has been anything but "normal", teachers have been in constant connection with both students and parents about all the safety protocol, learning expectations and changes to the scheduling of quadmesters. As parents, we have always been confident that GDHS is continuing to do everything possible to keep their students and staff safe."

“GDHS is a fantastic home town school. With smaller class sizes the students get the attention and help needed! The teachers and staff are all incredible. My child started grade 9 this year and the staff have made it the best year possible! The staff are all extremely welcoming and take the time to know the student’s names, even if they haven’t taught them yet! The staff’s goals are always about providing quality education and leading them down the road to success. All while being fun, supportive and helpful!! The bonus...the school spirit!! It’s pretty rocking’ with all the school spirit days they have!”
